

Pavillon Treatment Center for Addiction Announces 2011 Lunch & Learn Educational Series

Greenville, SC - In its ongoing commitment to be a reliable resource for education, treatment and prevention, Pavillon Center for Substance Use Disorders announced its 2011 Lunch & Learn Series for clergy, pastoral counselors, professional counselors and anyone working in the field of mental health and substance use disorders.

The sessions, all in Greenville, SC, feature leaders in the field, addressing issues such as intervention, spiritual care giving, continuing care and co-occurring disorders.

“These sessions are ideal for anyone in the treatment or counseling field who desires to learn and grow their base of knowledge about addiction and their ability to connect with patients and families in increasingly effective ways,” said Susan Holman, MD, Medical Director for Pavillon.

The 2010 series has been widely received by the industry, prompting the treatment center to continue to be an accessible and reliable resource in the field of recovery and addiction treatment, said Anne Vance, CEO for Pavillon.

As a national leader in the treatment of substance use disorders and related mental health issues, Pavillon is a private, non-profit, CARF accredited center providing residential and outpatient treatment as well as educational, spiritual and recovery support services for families and children. Pavillon’s residential campus is located in Western North Carolina on 140 acres in Mill Spring, NC, one hour north of Greenville. Pavillon Greenville Outpatient Services Center is at 117 Pelham Commons Blvd. in Greenville’s Eastside. This year’s series will be held at Hyatt Place, 40 West Orchard park Dr., Greenville, SC. There is no cost to participants and each session includes lunch. However, registration is required and capacity is limited. CEUs are available. To register, email greenvilleinfo@pavillon.org
