John Roberts, MD

Throughout the Carolinas, the Pavillon name has long symbolized a standard of high quality and successful outcomes in the treatment of substance use disorders and related mental health issues.

A central philosophy to our treatment approach exists in our commitment to addressing and pro-actively treating co-occurring disorders. That commitment can often mean the difference between sustained recovery or repeated relapses.

To that end, our clinical team welcomes the addition of John Roberts, MD.

Dr. Roberts comes to Pavillon from the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston, where he was assistant professor of psychiatry.

While many treatment programs claim to treat co-occurring disorders, they often solely focus on substance abuse and the 12-Steps. In addition to providing medication management, Pavillon is one of the few programs to offer intensive therapy to truly address psychiatric disorders as well as the substance use disorder in a safe residential and/or outpatient setting.

Dr. Roberts is now available for
